WE NOMINATE

John Archibald Wheeler, a world leader in science, who this week caught the attention of U. S. Senate Subcommittees with his proposal for the immediate creation of a campus of national defense laboratories dedicated to making first-rate use of American science in the American defense effort. Deeply disturbed by the prevailing "fragmentation of scientific effort", the 46-year old Princetonian, a major contributor to the development of both the atomic and hydrogen bombs, emphasizes that the United States must have a central research laboratory superior to any existing organization. "Here would be the one place in the country—there is none now—where at the working level ideas from one field could be brought to bear on problems from another field with all coils of inter-agency secrecy cast aside."

Central to Wheeler's conception is a project initiation laboratory concerned "not with what we do next week but what we do in the next five or 15 years." This bold innovation, which under civilian control would be the active heart of a complex of laboratories manned by industry, the armed services and education, would vitalize the Secretary of Defense's newly announced, but "laboratory-less", Advanced Projects Agency. While this agency, comparable to an atomic energy commission without laboratories, "appears capable of planning new defense ideas free of service compartmentalization", Wheeler insists that what is needed is an agency "which will develop ideas and feed them into the defense effort at the top, not demand that they filter up from below as at present."

Wheeler, Florida-born and a member of the Princeton University Faculty since 1938, has won international recognition, as he and his associates here and elsewhere have sought to determine "how the world is put together". One of the First American scientists to concentrate on nuclear fission, he was co-author in 1939 with Niels Bohr, eminent Danish physicist, of the paper on fission which made it possible to predict the reactivity of plutonium before that new element had been synthesized. Following his World War II associations with atomic energy projects, his interests have ranged over a variety of subjects, from nuclear physics to cosmic rays, elementary particle physics and general relativity.

In 1955, nearly three years after the United States had set off its first hydrogen explosion in the Pacific, it was finally reported that a Wheeler-headed Princeton research team had contributed much of the basic data and "much of the drive and enthusiasm" that led to the first successful thermonuclear reaction. Edward Teller, so-called "father of the H-Bomb", categorically stated that the Princeton calculations decided the issue as to the feasibility of the H-Bomb. And it was also in 1955 that the Nation's press carried the first accounts of Wheeler's mathematical discovery of a body he calls the Geon, an attempt to unify in one concept the infinitesimal whirling world of atomic particles and the vast reaches of star-filled space.

For cutting to the heart of the matter and advocating a positive, long-range program beamed at winning the research-and-development race between Russia and the Free World; for ever seeking to broaden man's understanding of the world in which he lives; for distinguished contributions in the Nation's service; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

PRINCETON
JUST LIKE ON TV
Has Success Spoiled the Hunters? A stranger walking into the Princeton Township Committee's monthly meeting, Monday night might well have done a quick double-take, perhaps believing he had lost a half-century of time somewhere — or perhaps thinking those on hand were rehearsing a "western" for television.
Much of the conversation was concerned, with law-breaking gunners and, quite appropriately, some centered on corralled horse-flesh.
Professor David A. McCabe of Herrontown Road, an eloquent homesteader seeking protection
"through some approach less outmoded and more effective than a 19th century application of the common law against trespass," fired the first shot by insisting that he and many other Township landowners are tired of bullets whistling around their wooded property. Walton B. Butterworth, 240 Snowden Lane, added fuel to the fire by noting that the Township's dog ordinance is hardly sufficient — it's time for bigger things.

"I respectfully request the Township Committee to consider the matter of protecting the residents of the Township from the nuisance of and danger from the discharge of firearms," the professor stated. "This nuisance and this danger are greatest during the hunting season, when they are heightened by the danger from gunners roaming our fields and patrolling our roads with loaded weapons in their hands."
Professor McCabe scored a strong point, endorsed by many another Township resident living out of town a bit, when he stressed: "The transition of the Township from a predominantly rural area to a predominantly residential area has made hunting with firearms in the Township an anachronism. It has become not only a nuisance but a danger to persons, especially children, and to domestic animals. It should be eliminated from the Township."

Wither Miss Fine's?
-Miss Fine's School, on the basis of unofficial reports that the Borough might be considering an expansion of some of its buildings, has asked a member of the Borough Planning Board whether or not the municipality might be interested in acquiring the 59-year-old institution's "strategically located property" which includes an acre of open land suitable for parking.
In a January 13th letter to John P. Wooldridge, Mrs.
Barklie M. Henry, chairman of Miss Fine's Board of Trustees, points out that Miss Fine's, like schools everywhere, is faced with space-problems and that future planning is dependent on "how advantageously and appropriately we can dispose of our land and buildings."
The school, located on land once part of the Morven Estate and abutting Princeton Battle Monument, would be primarily interested—if it did dispose of its holdings in a project of "maximum benefit to the community as a whole."

does not want "to interfere with a man's right to use his own property," the professor went on to observe that previous Township ordinances — prohibiting hunting on posted land or without the written permission of the land's owner — have failed. They are "difficult for the Township police to enforce," he said, "because the prohibition of hunting with firearms is not complete; it does not apply automatically throughout the Township."
Professor McCabe appeared fightin' mad as he reminded the Committee that "the present situation is inconsistent with the tax-assessment policy put in force by the Township last year. The assessment agency employed by the Township Committee took the position that the assessed value of all land in the residential districts must be based primarily on its value for residential use and it assessed on that basis land now exposed to invasion with practical impunity by gunners. It seems unjust to assess land at several hundred dollars an acre and at the same time leave the owner without protection against lawless gunners."

In reply to questioning by the concerned committeemen, Gordon D. Griffin, Township attorney, concurred with Professor McCabe, who claims his life is in jeopardy whenever he crosses the road to get his mail, that the present ordinance is "unenforceable." The Committee then took the subject
"under advisement," explaining that its members will confer with the attorney and others after Mr.
Griffin has "looked into the abolition of firearms in the Township."
No hunters were represented in the audience Monday evening, but several dyed-in-the-wool gunners, contacted later by TOWN TOPICS, speculated that any action will prompt a considerable stir at future sessions. "They can't take hunting away from us in Princeton Township," they objected. "There's still a lot of beautiful woodland, good for hunting, in the Township. Why, this is no city — it's still a small town!" They speculated also that they doubted if the State would want to lose the revenue now obtained from a goodly number of hunting licenses issued to Township gun-toters.

mannered gentleman, Mr. Butterworth appeared before the Com-

Joseph R. Nini, Township clerk, said the board of health did not believe it should be involved in a "case pertaining to a burro." "A what?" asked Mayor Charles A. Hurford. "A Jackass, Mr. Mayor," Attorney Griffin interjected. "No, a pony is not a burro," Mr. Butterworth insisted. "It is a somewhat larger animal."

Someone suggested that there are regulations governing the presence of pigs in different communities, whereupon someone else pointed out that a pony is a far cry from a pig. Whereupon Mr. Butterworth made a key observation: "Ponies are just as objectionable as pigs after a certain length of time."

The Committee felt obliged to take Mr. Butterworth's dilemma "under advisement," pending legal consultation. Just it had decided in conjunction with Professor McCabe's advice. But it was a little session — albeit not as much action as some "westerns" — and it was a lot more interesting than many TV dramas, positive action or not.

PERSONALITIES

Chen Ning Yang, 284 Mercer Road, Nobel Prize-winning physicist at the Institute for Advanced Study who, at age 34, this week was named one of America's "Ten Outstanding Young Men of 1957" by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce. Dr. Yang and nine other men under 35 years of age from the fields of medicine, government, industry and aeronautics research will be honored at an elaborate banquet Saturday evening in Phoenix, Arizona. They were chosen from 15,000 nomination blanks distributed throughout the country in recent months.

Merle Krimpton, 271 Edgerstone Road, witty pundit, much-read columnist and learned economist who this week, for better or for worse, received attention in a brand-new periodical, Communia University Forum (vol. 1, no. 1). Wrote author Richard A. Wald in an article entitled "The News According To Whom?" "Consider the difference between Westbrook Pegler and David Lawrence on one side of the telephone, and Murray Kempton and Walter Lippmann on the other," which certainly says something, depending on one's point of view.

Loris Zasuwan, 15 Greenview Avenue, veteran of many a Princeton Community Players' production who will now double as director on behalf of the dramatic organization by directing its activities during the coming months. With no member nominated for president at Tuesday's annual meeting, Mr. Zissman stepped into the vice-presidency with something more than a tacit understanding that the Players' future course was largely in his hands.

ROUND-UP

AROUND TOWN: Most Princetonians have thought about nothing but water in the air all week, but the folks around Borough and Township Halls insist budgets are in the air and they look bigger than raindrops. . . . Mayor Raymond F. Male and Rabbi Joseph H. Gelberman, two of the town's distinguished citizens, were inaugurated as members of the Princeton Lions Club on Tuesday evening (Just before Council time) . . . incidentally, those who wonder what the Borough's outdoor crew does when it's snowing or raining will be happy to know the men are kept busy indoors painting playground equipment for next summer, etc. . . . speaking of snow, a number of citizens neglected to shovel off their sidewalks after the latest storm and at least 78 notices were dispatched in the Borough to the most serious offenders. . . . Police Chief John H. Smith said cinders or sand should be spread on walks with ice that can't be removed, adding that complaints will be issued if violations continue. . . . the chief also noted that 28 cars were tagged for overnight parking after the latest storm, promising that more tickets will follow if streets aren't cleared for the night-working plow operators.

The Chapin School completed arrangements this week to purchase the Princeton Pike home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar S. Smith (now residents of Westcott Road), for fall occupancy. The spacious dwelling and acreage were for many years the property of the late Joseph W. Miller.

A handsome wooden fence separating Greenholm and Avalon Place has been installed, funded and financed (75% by Greenholm residents, 25% by the Borough).

Ice Carnival Renewed

The Princeton Skating Club has announced plans to stage an ice carnival in Baker Rink again this year, selecting as dates Friday and Saturday, March 14 and 15. The co-sponsor will be the central Jersey Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

The carnival was originated by the club in the early 'thirties, and has been presented at frequent intervals since that time for the benefit of various Princeton institutions. It was last staged in 1955.

Mrs. Richard Poisson and Mrs. Dudley Woodbridge are co-chairmen of this year's carnival committee. Lester Tibbals, Jr. is club president.

Thirty Housing Units Planned. Two of the Borough's major planning agencies, the Housing Authority and the Planning Board, held the spotlight and the attention of some 50 citizens at Tuesday's session of Mayor and Council, as representatives of both bodies unfolded programs and aspirations for the Princeton Community's future.

The Authority's plans for 30 additional units of public housing, adjoining the Hageman Homes and occupying a silver-shaped three-quarter acre plot fronting on John Street, were aired in detail by the Authority's Executive Director, Bruce H. French, and architect Charles K. Agie.

Located in accordance with the recommendations of the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Housing, and warmly endorsed by the Housing Authority's membership, the contemplated addition will require three brick-faced structures. The largest of these would be a 24-apartment, three-story building, featuring three levels of balconies known as "sidewalks in the sky" and paralleling John between Clay and Lytle Streets.

Before the plans are submitted to Federal administrators for final approval, the Housing Authority will ask informal hearings in order from the Board of Adjustment, Planning Board and Mayor and Council. Because of the nature of the site, several violations of the Zoning Ordinance including the requirements pertaining to density of population and overcrowding of land-area, are involved.

The lone and understandable dissenter at the Tuesday gathering was Albert E. Hinds, 229 John Street, 55-year old native-born Princetonian, who would be forced to vacate his home if the Authority's plans are translated into actuality. Mr. Hinds would be one of four individual property-owners affected.

Avalon-to-Wiggins. The Housing Authority, Mr. French reported, is seeking Federal Urban Renewal Funds in attempting to implement its plans for constructing a "thruway street" paralleling Nassau and joining Avalon Place and Wiggins Street. The "missing link", according to the plan forwarded to Philadelphia, would be located in the two-block area bounded by John and Witherspoon Streets and Hallish and Green Streets.

If Federal funds should be forthcoming, and they would amount to two-thirds of the cost of a project guesstimated at some $48,000, all plans would have to be approved by the Planning Board, and by Mayor and Council, following the prescribed public hearings. If Federal higher-ups should turn thumbs down, all financial worries would revert to the Borough.

While the particulars of the Housing Authority's plans were not discussed, it was indicated, in reply to a query from the Rev. William T. Parker, that the blueprint calls for the relocation of the First Baptist Church on a site "several hundred feet from its present location."

FREAK ACCIDENTS

Quartet hospitalized. Four "freak" accidents in 48 hours sent a quartet of Princetonians to Princeton Hospital this past week. Two of the mishaps took place while the victims were ice skating on Lake Carnegie — a sport which sent at least six others to the hospital's dispensary and others to private physicians for lesser treatment last weekend.

Of the four hospitalized patients, Roland Houquet, 37, of 113 Westcott Road, was the most seriously hurt. He suffered second degree burns about his midriff and hands when a gas burner exploded in his home at 8:30 a.m. Sunday as he sought to light it with a second match. Hospital authorities reported his condition as "satisfactory," though he was experiencing considerable pain.

On Sunday, two Princeton youngsters were injured while frolicking on the ice. Harry W. Morton, 13, of 64 Clay Street, a standout athlete at Witherspoon School, tumbled on the ice in the evening, was knocked unconscious and had to be taken to the hospital by the First Aid Rescue Squad, until early Monday morning, but X-rays revealed no broken bones and he was released late Tuesday.

Princetoners who were skating on the ice and fractured her right leg. For Claudia, it was the second bad skating accident in several years, the first having resulted in a fractured right arm. Hospital officials called her condition "good," but her mother did not use the same adjective to describe her luck on the ice — and understandably wasn't sure how soon skating will be permitted in the future.

Also last weekend, while supervising a demonstration of figure skating for her girl scout troop, Mrs. Reginald A. Higley of 373 Hamilton Avenue slipped and fell on the bank near the lake. Unaware at first of the extent of her injury, she entered the hospital next day with a severe fracture of the upper leg.

first meeting of the year Monday evening, not the least of which was the ever-present threat of traffic dangers at the Stony Brook bridge on Merger Road. In another effort to limit these dangers, the Committee unanimously approved the introduction of an ordinance by title calling for "no parking" and "no parking" zones on both approaches to the span.

Last summer, with the County's help, workers from the Township's police and engineering departments cleared brush, re-arranged signs and painted double lines up to and over the bridge in a move to curb serious accidents in the area, scope of a fatality in 1957. This week's start of an ordinance to provide additional safety measures resulted from a study of the matter by the Bureau of Traffic Safety of the Motor Vehicle Division.

Two members of the Township Board of Education appeared before the Committee to request land conveyance for road purposes on the Johnson tract off Rosedale Road, but the matter of road alignment on the land proposed site of a future school, was tabled pending additional study. Believing that the Johnson tract may be needed for a school before the much-discussed Riverside school site, the board members agreed to have representatives of the board's sites and new buildings committees explain the problem at the Committee's next session February 10. At that time, Rosedale property owners also will be afforded an opportunity to learn about the situation. Township Clerk Joseph H. Nini read the committee's letter from Charles Petzold, 179 Langview Drive, in which he criticized the Township Planning Board for its recommendation last week of a proposed cut-through at Lake Drive which eventually would link directly the Riverside section and Princeton University forthcoming Gray Farm subdivision. Stating that he represents 85 per cent of the Riverside landowners, Mr. Petzold wrote that the insistence of Mr. Labatut (Dean Labatut, board chairman) is what caused the decision. Mayor Charles A. Huford instructed Mr. Nini to find out if Mr. Petzold's message is intended as a formal appeal. (For a glimpse at what kind of letters Mr. Labatut is writing this week, see Mailbox, page 21.)

Otherwise Monday evening, the Township Committee:

● Responded to Governor Meyner's all-out drive to cut down highway deaths by agreeing to send the Township police chief and a Committee member to a special meeting of the State Coordinating Council on Traffic and Safety.

● Answered a complaint from Joseph E. Johnson, 22 Winant Road, who objected to the relatively new practice of charging interest on late taxes by stressing the legality of the practice as well as the illegality of granting a "grace" period, a former practice.

● Lowered the Brookstone sub-

News Of The THEATRES

Mc CARTER THEATRE

"Goggle" Cast Adds Star, Doro Merande, one of the great favorites of the theatre, has been added to the cast of Otto Preminger's production, "This Is Goggle," the Bentz Plagemann comedy scheduled for its world premiere in McCarter Theatre at 8 p.m. January 23. Miss Merande, remembered in Princeton for a brilliant-ly etched performance as the doll old woman in "Traveling Lady," will portray a somewhat eccentric spinster who becomes the innocent victim of one of Goggle's more radical experiments in destruction—starring of her cherished architectural imports by a well-aimed BB gun.

The play, which grew out of Plagemann's modern classic of a small boy, frighteningly normal, who has trouble from the age of 10 to 13 with his parents and other adults, will have Kim Hunter, and James Daly in the starring roles of the young parents. They will be shown moving erringly from crisis to crisis with only confusing modern knowledge to pit against small-boy instincts, eventually developing into well-understanding and more understanding adults under the tutelage of their young hopeful and his six savage allies JC (junior grade).

"Goggle," which deals warmly and humorously with the question, "Do parents rear their young or do the young educate their parents?" began with a single short story in Harper's Magazine in 1952, then evolved into a novel, now translated into a dozen languages and carried in capsule form by Reader's Digest in all of its foreign editions. The situation of a young naval officer, returning after a term of service, to find the five-year-old he had left now grown up to the advanced age of 10 with a range of activities and a vocabulary that would stagger a marine gunnery sergeant, parallels somewhat the experience of Plagemann and his stepson.

The popularity of "Goggle" around the world would seem to point to the universal problem of parents vs. the primal instincts of the young. Producer-Director Preminger, who has always been known to have a way with young actors, has selected "Goggle" for his re-entry to Broadway after seven years of bondage in Hollywood.

In the title role is 11-year-old Michel Ray, who has attracted considerable attention in two major motion pictures ("The Tin Star" and "The Brave Bulls"). He will have a field day on stage, going through such boy-like routines as breaking neighbors' windows, cutting classes at school, tearing up his clothes and using anything but the King's English. The duration of the play is three years—during which time Michel must reflect a number of changes in Goggle.

"Goggle" will continue its McCarter run the evenings of January 24 and 25 (both with an 8:30 curtain) and a "thrill" matinee comant Film Forum's program committee, reminded the group's subscribers that what the sixth season's first evening of films will be conducted at 8 next Monday in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian Church. Admission will be permitted by season's tickets only.

Feature of Monday's program will be "Ugetsu," a Japanese masterpiece which won a number of major international awards and prizes several years ago. Also scheduled is "One Drop Too Many," a delightful spoof by the Czechoslovakian group that produced the animated cartoon, "Song of the Prairie."

THE PLAYHOUSE

Sayonara (Jan. 16-21), one of the finest motion pictures of 1957, treats a difficult subject—the love of two American soldiers for two Japanese girls—with beauty, warmth and understanding. Perhaps a bit too long (147 minutes), the film details, in moving and absorbing fashion, the marriage between a sergeant and his Japanese sweetheart that ends in tragedy, then concentrates on the romance between a major and his girl-friend that ends in confusion—but hope. The story raises many questions and leaves a lot of them unanswered; yet they are posed so effectively that the answers are less left with the audience.

Credit for the success of "Sayonara" (which means "goodbye") is shared by a host of accomplished artists, notably Marlon Brando as the major. In this instance, Brando plays a proud Texas—and plays him with such a southern drawl and such conviction that it would seem Brando has the greatest range of any performer around these days. surprises as the flexible, mal-treated agent, while Shuko Take, Patricia Owens and Ricardo Montalban are particularly good in support. Joshua Logan's direction of the James A. Michener novel evidences consummate skill, for he keeps his actors believable throughout the story, telling and winds up with a stimulating, thought-provoking finished product. Other assets are the title song by Irving Berlin and the Technirama-Technicolor filming of authentic Japanese locations.

Peyton Place (Jan. 22-28), as every red-blooded as well as hot-blooded American knows by now, is the sordid saga of a small New England town that made Grace Metalious a popular novelist everywhere—and an unpopular "squealer" up in New England. In its screen version, most of the lust is missing end, as a result, much lustre is added. The book really isn't very good at all, despite the hullabaloo raised over its obscenity, but the film proves quite rewarding. No Academy Award winner, to be sure; yet, a motion picture which by turns is heartwarming and brutal, happy and tragic, scary and sun-cream—which, in the final analysis, is a small town come to life.

Thanks in no small measure to Jerry Wald's astute production work and Mark Hobson's cautious and clever direction, a cast of old and new hands blends smoothly to connect a success out of John Michael Hayes' screenplay, which very wisely substitutes suggestion for frankness in most instances. Lana Turner, Lloyd Nolan and Betty Field are the veterans who put their best feet forward, with Miss Turner earning a special accolade inasmuch as she has stumbled frequently in recent years of the newsmen's Russ Tamblyn, Hope Lange and Diane Varsi are particularly effective and promising. The twin technical advances of CinemaScope and Deluxe Color add much to the overall endeavor, beautifying the Vermont town of "Peyton Place," which was photographed in Maine because, according to Hollywood's fines, Maine looks more like New England than Vermont does.

THE GARDEN

"Cahiria" (Jan. 13-18), in Italian dialogue with English subtitles, tells the tale of a prostitute and her ability to overcome the sorrows and small tragedies with which life constantly harasses her. Part comedy, part drama, the film makes no effort to maintain a conventional plot, but rather presents a series of episodes to reveal the character of its central figure. "Cahiria," like its namesake, has its weaknesses, but it is touching and fascinating. And, while it is strictly adult fare, this import is never offensive. Director Federico Fellini and his actress-wife, Giulietta Masina, who combined their talents in the award-winning "La Strada," are back again and both are exceptionally capable people.

And God Created Woman (Jan. 20-25), originally done in French but with English dubbed in, brings Brigitte Bardot to Princeton in a role that will not soon be forgotten. Portraying an undisciplined, amorous girl who wrecks havoc wherever she goes, Miss Bardot offers a superb performance. Her dramatic story sizes as it covers sex, seduction, temptation and redemption in a South of France village—perhaps the Peyton Place of that area. It is vivid, adult material, frankly presented and handsomely photographed in Eastman Color and CinemaScope.

HOW TO BE A COOK

Take One Egg. The name of Diane Lucas is familiar to everyone who has ever scrambled an egg. She is, to refresh your memory, a graduate of the Cordon Bleu Cooking School in Paris and the headmistress of her own cooking school in New York. She also presides over a new television show which you may watch at 10:30 a.m. Tuesdays on Channel 11.

We are interested in Mrs. Lucas, however, because she is about to come to Princeton to give a series of three cooking demonstrations. The first will be on January 29 at 8 p.m., at Miss Fine's and the other two will follow on successive Wednesday nights in the same place. She is coming to town under the sponsorship of the Central Jersey alumnae of Wellesley College, which is most definitely not a cooking school, however adept its graduates may turn out to be in later years.

Mrs. Lucas k... we understand, a superb showman and you get considerably more than recipes and techniques when you attend her demonstrations. She is quite coy about revealing her program, but we can tell you that each demonstration will be a complete meal—you won't have to sit through the two-hour show with nothing to watch but an omelet.

You will be shown the preparation of entrees, salads, desserts, and the like, but you won't necessarily get a balanced menu that you'd serve to guests. For example, you may feel that January 29th's entree goes with February 5th's dessert. Anyhow you'll have three full meals to give you quite a selection.

Mrs. Lucas has chosen her menus to provide a harmonious mixture of difficult dishes for advanced cooks, and simple ones for beginners. And the Wellesley Club has thoughtfully scheduled the demonstrations for evenings so that men can attend.

Princeton Gourmet will have a small collection of Bazar Francis items at each of the demonstrations so you can pick up a new wire whisk on your way out if you want to.

Tickets are on sale at Haebe's Gifts, Princeton Shopping Center, Hinkson's Stationery Store and the Gourmet.

Linens and Lawn. Both these fine fabrics will carry you through the most taxing cruise or the most hectic of southern vacations. You will find that Mayme Mead's shop at 138 Nassau is liberally stocked with both.

Finger the texture of an Italian basketweave linen sheath, with plain-textured polka dots in the same coral shade as the dress. A large pearl button and tab mark the spot eight inches above the hemline. (Many dresses have this emphasis at knee-height.

A voile in royal and powder blue print has a wide collared boat neckline with a flat bow in front. The skirt is gathered all around. Pale pink lawn, embroidered, has a deep V-neck filled in with a tiny vestee. A pink satin belt holds in the full skirt.

Red cross-stitching in a five-inch band goes around the full skirt of a white lawn. The embroidery repeats at the square neckline and across the wide shoulder straps.

Shorts Story

We found a pair of Bermuda shorts and a short matching jacket at Mayme Mead's shop that turned out to be more fun to read than the New York Times.

An olive green linen background has been rigged out with old sail-makers' signs, tavern shingles and everything but old laundry lists. In between the signs and the legends are black line drawings of old clipper ships, presumably loaded with molasses or rum.

The biggest print is a 14-inch clear store Indian in full battle dress supporting a large sign that reads "Havane Balm, Virginia Cherry Sweet, Grand-ma's Nosegay, Yarn Lip Honey, and Many Other Delicite Weed Concoctions."

Not a word about filter tips, but that certainly is a king-size Indian!

A flap panel covers the back kick pleat of a periwinkle blue linen sheath. Two bows mark the knee line. There's self piping at sleeve edges and down the slashed round neckline. Ribbons of pink roses and green embroidered stems loop around the front of a wide collar and give color to a white linen. It has short raglan sleeves, a tie belt, and buttons three-quarters of the way down its skirt.

The jungle leaps right out at you from a very fine silk-like voile. The big print is orange, yellow and blue-grey, the cut of the dress runs to cap sleeves, scoop neck and flared skirt. The palest lime green you ever saw folds into a pleated lawn skirt, topped with a short-sleeved bodice that has a wide, white-scalloped collar. Belt and buttons repeat the green.

How Firm a Foundation. Bermuda shorts often require something more besides, and Edith's, 10 Chambers Street, has a long-legged girdle to wear under Bermudas. It's styled with a dip front so that it won't bind, and it has small blue bows printed on its white surface, just to keep you cheerful.

Warner's offers a girdle with a very loose, eased waist to wear with chemise dresses. It's white —Continued on Page 8 nylon elastic. For low-cut resort dresses, Lily of France offers a white lace brassiere with a very deep front, and a back that's low enough to suit most new sundresses. It's wired all around and has white velvety straps, of all things.

White, yellow-centered daisies on an olive green field make a spring-like print for an ensemble at Edith's. First comes a knee-length pajama with narrow, ankle-length pants, short sleeves, a collar, and a ribbon of olive green velvet running from shoulder right down to ankle. It has a zip, per cloche.

With the pajama you may have a dress-length robe, tied with the same green velvet ribbon. The matching gown is white tulle and cotton batiste with the daisy print at the top, yellow shoe-string ties, and a scalloped edge banded with yellow.

Then Winter Wind. For people who shiver now instead of sand, we have gathered an exclusive collection of ice-skates, hand-lotion and vaporizers.

Skates are still available, even on sale in some places, and you may buy skate skates as small as size 11 at Tween Age in the Shopping Center. Huit offers skates for everybody in the family from a size 12 up to little size 12, that is.

Itaheeb offers Canadian Flyer skates for figure skaters and hockey players, and little double runner fellows for little fellows. Here also are skate skates with narrow double runners that look like really grown-up skates. Children's skis at Itaheeb, too. Both Tiger and Itahab have skates from $8.95 and $9.95.

On the theory that a woman's skin has no enemy but winter and rough weather (well, time, too, but that's another story), Thorne's has a smorgasbord of hand lotions, skin balms and medications for the winter-worn skin. Tuscany's Wind and Weather hand lotion has hexachlorophene to provide medication along with everything else. You pay $1 for a $2 size, $2 for the $1 size and $1 for the $2 jar of hand cream.

Cheramy offers Skin Balm with a disclaimer. This stuff is heavy with lamolin and is very good for knees, elbows and the chapped lips of young ladies who are too old for snowsuits and too stubborn for their own good. The label says that Skin Balm is also used by men to loosen dirt, grime and grime.

Now, about the matter of time and the skin. Helena Rubinstein, the girl you can always count on, has added to her hormone preparations something called "progesterone" that has been "medically proven" (so Helena says) to reactivate oil glands and do just the thing they do in a young skin. It comes in her Hormone Cream, Ray the Cream for none Cream, and the oil-free—$6 value—that's called Hormone Twins. Hormone Triplets adds the Rubenstein Silk Tone Special Foundation base.

A Rubenstein hand-lotion called Young Touch gives you the estrogenic hormone for $1.50 in a $3 dispenser bottle.

Turn away from Thorne's cosmetic counter and you'll find vaporizers that run for four hours or all night. (No hormones here.) Buy a bottle of vaporizer inhalant to put in the machine and you're half way to a cure. The store also carries heating pads and lots of ointin.

The most cheerful piece of winter we've seen in a long time are the Sun Pins at Edith's Lingerie Shop on Chambers Street. These are bright red (black, too, but these are the side of red lights made of Helianthus stretch yarn. Just like the ones you wear under a skating skirt).

These can be worn with a regular skirt and your most eye-catching pair of shoes. The daisies are woven with a slight texture that holds them snugly to your legs and makes them interesting to look at, although a pair of red legs doesn't really need enhancing. Wash these like nylon hose.

ADVERTISING VOLUME is based on results. That's why TOWN TOPICS carries more classified advertisements each week in the year than all other Princeton papers combined.

MUSIC In Princeton

MATTIWILOA DOBBS SINGS
McCartier Audience Enchanted. Seldom does one have the opportunity to observe an audience of some sophistication being enchanted by the personality and performance of a fine artist. Such was the case Monday night, however, when Mattiwiola Dobbs, soprano, assisted by Leo Taubman at the piano, rendered as tasteful a concert as one could hope for.

Miss Dobbs, who possesses a delightful stage personality, opened her program with four songs by the contemporary Rodgers. The third, which provided a natural vehicle for her engaging treatment of the light, lyrical score, was greeted by the first of several spontaneous bursts of applause which were to mark the evening an unqualified success.

The second group of selections contained four hits of jazz set to music by Schubert. The last, "Liebhaber in Allen Gestalten" by Goethe, was done in particularly fine style, with an implied sense of humor pervading which left the audience chuckling appreciatively.

As the final selection in the first half of the concert, Miss Dobbs chose the very difficult aria, "Regnava nel silenzio" from "Lucie di Lammeheer", by Donizetti. However, challenged, Miss Dobbs rendered this aria with a minimum of difficulty as she displayed a thorough control of her rare light voice. Her efforts were successful enough to require a well deserved ovation, and a short encore prior to intermission.

Miss Dobbs opened the second half of her concert with two little songs by Hahn, of which the first was particularly pleasing. These were followed by three of Chausson's short pieces, written for verse composed by Camille. Here Mr. Taubman's efforts contributed much to the total effect, for he is an accomplished musician in his own right.

The final group of selections was in a somewhat lighter mood, and included two Creole songs, "Lizette" and "Micheu Banjo," both arranged by Nicholson, and "Ma Soule's Been Anchored in de Lord," all of which were well suited to Miss Dobbs' voice and delivery.

A successful concert must have its encores, and Miss Dobbs provided three, to the delight of all present. First, the popular "Summertime," then the traditional "Go 'way from My Window," which is a little haunting and very lovely; and finally, "The Alpine Shepherds," was done by the gracious soprano.

MOZART—NOT SINGING

B. Goodman Coming Here. Benjamin Goodman, a bespectacled clarinetist known to the world of jazz and classical music alike as "Benny," will be heard in McCarter Theatre Monday, January 27, with the Princeton Symphony Orchestra. He will perform as a soloist.

Mr. Goodman will play Mozart's Concerto for Clarinet and Orchestra (K-622) in A Major. The orchestra will be conducted by Nicholas Haranyi, who regularly yields the baton.

The program will also include Divertimento on Hungarian Themes by Leo Weiner; Aaron Copland's "Quiet City"; and Haydn's Symphony No. 83. Tickets are on sale at the Princeton University Store and may also be purchased on the night of the concert at the McCarter box office.

Topics Of The Town

budget of $947,354, closer than ever to the impressive $1,000,000 mark.

The Borough gathering is set for 8 o'clock in the board room at Princeton High School, with the Township's public hearing due to follow at the same hour January 28 in the cafeteria of Valley Road School.

In announcing and publishing its proposals this week, the Township Board of Education hastened to note that $836,683 is the total amount needed from local sources. This represents a net increase of $46,916, or 5.9 percent, over last year. The difference between the total budget sought and the amount required from local taxes is made up by State Aid in various categories.

William L. Wilson, president of the Township board, observing that assessments are up 7.9 percent in the municipality, voiced the opinion that, "if the increase expected in the Township tax base materializes, there should be no increase in the portion of the tax rate for school purposes. Any change which may occur when the figures are final will be negligible."

Meeting with newsmen to explain the proposed budget, Mr. Wilson and several colleagues—Mrs. Jess Epstein, board public relations chairman; Norman J. Anderson, board secretary, and Mrs. Bertha M. Eisenmann, superintendent of Township schools—said the figures show increases of about $50,000 to be raised for the "current expense" sections of the budget and about $10,000 to be raised locally for debt service. This is partly balanced by a decrease of almost $54,000 in the "capital outlay" section of the budget.

Teachers' Salaries Up. The largest single jump in the Township budget, the spokesman indicated, is $11,625 in the item for teachers' salaries. This is the result of the second step of the voter-approved three-year program of salary hikes adopted last year, plus provision for the addition of experienced new teachers (probably three) for the extra classes which increased enrollments will make necessary next year.

The next biggest budget increase is $25,275 in tuition charges. Although high school tuition per pupil remains about the same, the growth in the number of Township students registered at THS from 350 this year to an anticipated 396 next year necessitates a continuous rise in this figure.

School transportation next year will cost taxpayers approximately $6,000 more than this year, though the total increase reflected in the budget will read $11,250. The need for at least one new bus route next year accounts for the first amount, but the latter figure actually must be included in the budget because the addition of two new high school routes, not foreseen at budget time last year, will result in a total transportation cost for 1967-68 about $5,000 in excess of the budgeted amount. The board noted that, in spite of rising costs, the cost per pupil-mile for transportation this year is slightly below the average for the past five years.

The decrease of $54,000 in "capital outlay" for the coming year is possible because major items, such as the $40,000 for new sites and other substantial funds for projects like the alterations at the Shady Brook administration building and the purchase of equipment, have been absorbed and need not be repeated. In this category, as well as in repairs and replacements, which show a decrease of $2,725, Mr. Wilson stressed that the board has made every effort to keep costs to a minimum while considering the finest education for the Township's children at the least possible cost to the taxpayers.

BANK REPORT

Good Past, Good Future. Optimistic looks, both forward and backward, characterized the annual report of John P. Poe, president of the First National Bank of Princeton, who mixed promising figures with happy figures at a traditional meeting of the bank's shareholders Tuesday. Mr. Poe noted that his report for 1957 reflects a year of growth and progress," then went on to predict more of the same for 1958.

"The year ahead promises to be a good one for your bank," the president said. "While there are a number of uncertainties on the business horizon, it would not seem likely that our operations will be adversely affected to any marked degree. The community is continuing to grow, and while there may be some slowing up here and there, as long as Princeton continues to be a vital, growing area, as seems probable, we shall expect to share its growth."

Comparing the balance sheets as of December 31, 1956 and 1957, and the operating figures for the two years, Mr. Poe concluded that "a great deal of progress has been made." Specifically, he cited the fact that additional capital of $250,000 was raised during 1957 from the sale of 1,000 shares of new stock, $100,000 of which was put to capital account, the remaining $150,000 being credited to surplus. At the same time, he observed, an additional $100,000 was transferred to capital account from undivided profits to compensate for a stock dividend distributed on the basis of one new share for each four previously owned.

"Our West Windsor office, after 14 months of operation, has achieved a substantial amount of new deposits, and helped us make many new friends," Mr. Poe told the shareholders. "No one expects a new office to make a profit the first year or so of its existence, and part of the increase in costs shown in our operating reports represents expenses incident to the new office, but all in all we are greatly pleased at the progress shown, and at the facilities the office gives us for serving our customers more efficiently and comfortably."

Referring to the overall First National operation, the president said it has handled "an increasingly large volume of transactions." Its loan portfolio, over $1,000,000 for 1957, is clean, and its bond account is "high grade, of predominantly short maturity, and with book values in line with market quotations." During the year, after considering tax advantages of such a move, the bank took a loss of some $95,000 on certain bonds. New securities purchased with the proceeds of the sale already indicate a considerable unrecaptured profit, and have helped build up a cushion of eventual gain through their acquisition at a substantial discount below par.

Borough Court Action, Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. dealt with a wide variety of complaints Tuesday.

Richard F. Puffer, Jr., 20, of 10-A Holder Hall paid $50 for being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded not guilty to the charge. Robert Harlow, 43, of Port Mercer also paid $50 after pleading guilty to the same offense.

M. F. Anderson, Jr., 44, of 308 Reservoir Street, Trenton, paid $40 for swilling garbage from the truck. Three other traffic fines were imposed by Magistrate Tams: George Gallup, Jr., 28, of the Great Road, failure to have car inspected, $10; Miss Audrey Owens, 21, of 60 Vermont Street, Trenton, careless driving, $20; and Rodney Unangst, 52, of Alexander Road, Princeton Junction, failure to obey police signal, $20.

NOT BLEARY-EYED YET: James R. Hagadorn, motion picture projectionist at the Princeton Playhouse, has been in the business for 52 years. He started working as an illustrated songs at the age of 10 and, for the past 44 years, has served as a film operator. Below, as part of Question of the Week, his movie preferences for 1957 are detailed. None of the 57 crop figures in his all-time "big three," which happen to be "The Birth of a Nation," "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "Gone With the Wind." On the timely and controversial subject of draftee-to-be Elvis Presley, Mr. Hagadorn insists, "If he were mine, I'd hang him!" (Photo by Alan Richards)

Question of the Week

Question: What was the best motion picture you saw in 1957, and who was the year's outstanding performer?
Location: Princeton Playhouse.

James R. Hagadorn, 189 Harrison Street, film projectionist at the Playhouse: In my opinion, "12 Angry Men" was the finest all-around picture last year. Acting and direction were excellent — in fact, the total production was wonderful. And I'd like to mention Walt Disney's "Perry," one of the greatest nature films ever made. Henry Fonda, who's always good, did an outstanding job in "12 Angry Men" and "The Tin Star." Tony Perkins was outstanding among Hollywood's newcomers for his work in "Fear Strikes Out" and "The Tin Star."

Mary Ann Coria, 1 Willow Street, eighth grader at St. Paul's School: "An Affair to Remember" was my favorite movie of '57. It was so sad and sentimental, and I like and things. Deborah Kerr was terrific in that film, but, believe it or not, I'm going to give Elvis Presley my vote for the year's outstanding performance. I thought he was, at his best in "Jailhouse Rock."

Mrs. Frank Slosko, Kingston, housewife: Two movies stood out last year, I think. "The Ten Commandments" was a magnificent show, combining all the essential features of a great motion picture. And "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison" also was very good. I enjoyed the reality of it — the belief that it represented something that really could happen — and the acting in it was superior. In fact, I would recommend Deborah Kerr as the year's top performer for her acting in "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison" and "An Affair to Remember." You've asked a tough question because there were so many good films, really.

Tom Steinline, 263½ John Street, eighth grader at Valley Road School: I thought "Band of Angels" was the best picture. I like the feeling I got from it. You know, lots of excitement. As for acting, Tony Perkins was outstanding in "The Tin Star."

Charlie McGuire, Huntington, W. Va., freshman at Hun School: Beyond any doubt, "Three Faces of Eve" was the No. 1 movie of 1957. It had great acting, and the story demanded your attention all the way through. However, Deborah Kerr turned in the year's best performance in "An Affair to Remember."

Judy Feldman, 36 Wilton Street, freshman at Princeton High School: I go to the movies fairly — almost once every week, and sometimes more often — and

Brown=Box Office

Asked a Question of the Week (elsewhere on this page) about last year's movies and their stars, Princetonians disagreed generally with the nation's critics — and very probably with the Hollywood voters who will decide '57's Academy Award winners in March. The Princeton viewers' opinions tended to substantiate the fact that box office champions are not necessarily Oscar winners, and vice versa.

Curiously, those "cinemadicts" responding to Question of the Week never once mentioned the names of last year's leading box office draws — Rock Hudson and John Wayne. And, while the Princeton moviegoers nominated several different females for outstanding performances in '57, not one distaff emoter managed to squeeze onto the official list of box office powers released recently by the nation's theatre owners.

For the record, TOWN TOPICS' reviewer thought "12 Angry Men" was the year's top film (unseen as yet: "The Bridge on the River Kwai"), with a special nod to "Operation Mad Ball" as the funniest comedy and "Silk Stockings" as the slickest musical. Tony Perkins, in "Fear Strikes Out," hit a home run among male performers, and Audrey Hepburn, in "Love in the Afternoon," was the best actress. Worst of many had ones: "Jet Pilot," which should not have been issued even seven years late.

I thought "Don't Go Near The Water" was the best picture of '57. It was full of laughs, which is something we all appreciate in a movie. Cary Grant, a good actor for a long while, was outstanding in '57 in "An Affair to Remember."

Mrs. Frances Sutphen, Province Line Road, housewife: "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison" was by far the best picture I saw last year. It gave me a tremendous lift, made me feel really good when I left the theatre. There were many pictures that cause such a lift. There aren't many pictures with such strong emotion. Deborah Kerr did an outstanding job of acting in the same picture. I liked the air of patience and understanding she created in the role of a nun.

Julius Coria, 15 Aiken Avenue, under at the Playhouse: I saw "April Love" seven or eight — Continued on Page 16

THE WORLD'S AN OPEN BOOK for Littlebrook School children now that they have a library all their own. The new library, in the Littlebrook lobby, is staffed entirely by volunteer mothers who help the school and learn something about school problems at the same time. Here Mrs. Frances Ross and Mrs. William Stasiukewich confer with several children about what book to read next. Left to right: Kathy Dardels, Nicholas Arcaro, Drane Montgomery and Susan Cleaver. ### A NEW LIBRARY

Mother Helpers. A look in the hand is worth two on the shelf, and a mother who watches a school operate day by day, understands the school better than a mother who stays home.

This is the philosophy behind the new Littlebrook School Library, now completing its first semester of bookkeeping for the children in the Township's newest school. The new library is operated and staffed entirely by volunteer mothers, whose children go to Littlebrook. There are 45 of them and they keep the library open four full days a week from 8:30 in the morning until school closes at 2:30, with an hour out for lunch.

It is an extraordinarily successful volunteer project, according to Charles Lamontagne, principal, and Mrs. Laurence Holland, P.T.A. Library Chairman. Except for one or two genuine emergency situations, not one mother has ever missed her turn, and one even appeared on a day when school was closed because of snow. (She spent a quiet morning, catching up on files.)

The library occupies a corner of the Littlebrook lobby next to the big sunny bay window with its deep indoor garden of house plants. The 700 books are kept in a set of low movable bookcases, hinged together to provide a partition between library and lobby. Mr. Lamontagne designed the cases and they were made by F. J. Grover for the 450 books with which Littlebrook started its library.

The children are such eager readers that the bookcases are almost always empty. The books range from kindergarten through the eighth grade level, and there are biographies, stories, books on science, encyclopedias—all chosen by the principal on the recommendations of Littlebrook teachers, and all catalogued and watched over by the mothers.

Genesis. The idea for a volunteer library came out of faculty and P.T.A. meetings held last spring. Mr. Lamontagne and his teachers felt that the children needed supplementary reading material and the experience of using a library so they would not be lost when they graduated from Littlebrook into junior high. "The volunteer library set-up gives us a chance to get close to the parents," says Mr. Lamontagne, "and to build up a sense of mutual understanding. Besides, the library enhances our program by giving the children an added facility."

Letting mothers into a school as workers is quite a big step. In many schools, teachers and principal are jealous guardians of their time with children and they would rather not have parents around to poke a finger into the system.

At Littlebrook, however, parents, teachers and children operate in complete harmony. Without the parents, the teachers would probably not have the library; the mothers, in turn, have the fascination (and one mother used precisely that word) of watching the children go through the school day; and the children have, not only the enrichment of a library, but also the thrill of having mother be librarian.

"MY mother's on duty today" is a common boast among the kindergarten-to-fifth grade population at Littlebrook, although one third-grader is terribly embarrassed when he has to give his own mother a book to check out. "The mothers work in teams of two, except the lone mother who works the 8:30-9 a.m. shift. They fortify themselves with coffee from the nearby cafeteria, pick up alphabet from the armoire that come out the cafeteria doors, and watch the changing patterns of the school day as children go through the lobby.

And Economy, Too. Inside the enclosure made by the hinged bookcases, there are small chairs and tables, a rack for the encyclopedia and editorial posters fastened to bulletin boards. There isn't much room for the elaborate research that upper grades do, but this doesn't seem to hamper the children much. All this has been achieved with minimum cost, and about the only expenses are filing cards and rubber stamps.

"Mercer County has a Epok-Mobile program," Mr. Lamontagne said on Page 15.

lagne explains." And we have some supplementary reading without our new library. But with the Book-Mobile we'd get only 10 or 12 books per classroom per month and of course the children wouldn't have the actual experience of a library."

Merced County librarians taught the mothers how to set up a workable system, and Miss Margaret Barr, Princeton Public Librarian and Miss Katherine Coffey, Valley Road Librarian, were also consulted. Mrs. Robert Wheatley serves as cataloger and the Library Committee consists of Mrs. Holland, Mrs. Wheatley, Mrs. Emil Lehmann, Mrs. Dewitt Armstrong and, from the faculty, Gretchen Sternberg.

The end product of their work has been so successful that neighboring school systems have begun to write Littlebrook asking, "How do you do it, and can we do it, too?"

SEMINARS PLANNED

"Princetonian" to Be Evaluated. Three seminars on the responsibility of a newspaper for the welfare of its constituency will be held on the Princeton campus this winter. The cost of the seminars will be covered by a gift from Bartle M. Henry, a graduate of Harvard Class of 1924, who is a resident of Princeton.

Sponsored by The Daily Princetonian, the sessions will be open to staff members of the paper and to all other undergraduates interested in journalism as a career. A distinguished group of journalists and several educators with active newspaper backgrounds will participate in panel discussions which will afford opportunities for analysis of special problems and audience participation.

The first seminar will be held this Friday at 5 p.m. in the conference room of Woodrow Wilson Hall. The five-man panel will consist of Edward W. Barrett, Dean of the Graduate School of Journalism at Columbia University and former Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs; Barry Bingham, President and Editor, Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times; William B. Dickinson, Assistant Managing Editor, Philadelphia Bulletin; James Kemei, Jr., Vice-President and Editor, Trenton Times and Sunday Times Advertiser; and Charles B. McCabe, Publisher, New York Daily Mirror.

Mr. Henry, the donor, has served on the University's Advisory Councils for the Department of Philosophy and the Woodrow Wilson school of public and international affairs. He has suggested that the seminars be dedicated "to exploring the purposes and methods appropriate to a University newspaper, in order to bring to light some fresh ideas relevant to reporting adequately the whole life of a great community of scholars" and to interpreting wisely their activities from day to day.

Teen Age-Recreation Talk Set. Irvine Millgate, chairman of the adult advisors of the New Milford Teen Age Center, will discuss how one New Jersey community has tackled the problem of teenage recreation here on Wednesday, January 22. Sponsored by the Council of Community Services, the meeting is open and will be held at 8:15 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Millgate will describe how interested citizens of New Milford went about learning to understand the problems of young people. He will play tape recordings to illustrate the problems and attitudes of the young people who had to be considered in developing the New Milford Center as a joint enterprise of the adults and teen-agers in the community.

President of the Mental Health Consultation Center of Bergen County, Mr. Millgate is the owner of a company, IMPCO, which specializes in audio-visual communication aids and in the development of training programs. Dr. Paul Tillett, chairman of the council's recreation committee, will serve as moderator during the discussion following the talk.

Datus Smith to Speak. Datus C. Smith Jr. will address The Women's College Club of Princeton on Monday, at 8:30 in the Princeton High School social room. Mr. Smith's subject will

Report from THE MAYOR

Open House. I am anxious to schedule an evening each week when, without appointment, anyone may feel free to come to Borough Hall and "tell it to the Mayor". It is my thought that many people may be too busy during the day to talk things over and they might welcome a chance to ask questions or to express their views on town problems. The next day I'll be able to see the appropriate staff members and take action on these requests or suggestions.

This week, I will be in hard Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in the Mayor's office, and will stay on 'till 10 p.m. We will try, through experience, to find a night that conflicts least with other scheduled meetings in town.

Congratulations. In sending congratulations to the Township's new Mayor last week, I pointed out that we would have many opportunities to work together in the best interest of the Princeton community. During the March of Dimes luncheon at 1 p.m. I had a chance to chat with Mayor Hubert and about some of our mutual problems, including the new normal talk with Highway Commissioner Dwight R. G. Palmer on the by-pass.

Some Real Dividends. Holding the conference session with Council and staff right days before the public meeting brought some real dividends.

The newspapers were able to carry notes about the various borough staff members were able to follow up on a number of items in preparation for the regular meeting. The Mayor and Council were able to take their first look at the Public Services Building being acquired by the Borough. While we were there, we went on to the Witherspoon building for some first-hand information about its possible future role upon completion of the new "Y" building program.

Important Meetings. Among the Mayor's other meetings of the week: a session with the Planning Board, with an invitation for them to attend the Council meeting; and a Traffic Safety Council meeting for Mercer County. On Wednesday we were host to the League of Municipalities of the County, and the Mayor served as moderator at a public meeting on community mental health services at the Nassau Street School.

On Thursday evening, I was pleased to accept the invitation of Borough and Township police officers to talk with them, answer questions, and to enjoy a fine social evening. We discussed possibilities of further training, especially in connection with their many opportunities to work with youth in Princeton.

Left Hand - Right Hand. One of the apparent needs in Borough government is for better communication. This problem has many dimensions. For instance, the Planning Board needs to know what the Housing Authority is planning, and the Mayor and Council certainly must stay in close touch. People seem to agree that we must cut down the time lag on some of our processes of working together.

"American Books In Asia." President of Franklin Publications, Inc., which has a New York office, seven offices in Asia, Mr. Smith is seeking to publish and distribute American classics in Asia. He is engaged in the publication of American books by translation into foreign languages, such as Arabic, Persian, Urdu, Indonesian and Turkish.

A frequent traveler to the Arab states, Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and Indonesia, Mr. Smith is supervising and planning the production of 800 publications. Mrs. John E. Fenn will be in charge of the meeting, assisted by Mrs. Elmer K. Timby, Mrs. Courland D. Perkins, Mrs. J. Preston Layton, Mrs. Ernest Birchenall, Mrs. Martin Summerfield and Mrs. Donald Ellis.

DORMITORY CEREMONY
Hon to Break Ground. The Hun School will break ground for its new $400,000 building at noon next Saturday, January 25. A dormitory, kitchen, dining hall and lounge will be included in the addition.

Both John P. Poe, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Dr. Paul R. Chesbro, Headmaster, will wield shovels at the ceremony. The new building, plans for which have been under way for over a year, will be of modern design and constructed of pre-stressed concrete, aluminum and glass.

A lounge will connect the two-story dormitory section with the dining hall. The 2,000-squared kitchen and the dining room will combine to serve 200 persons, the entire school.

The present structure, serving as dormitory, classrooms and dining hall, will be connected to the addition by a covered passageway. The architect for the new building is Charles K. Agle, and Matthews Construction Company is the contractor.

Plans for the addition got under way in December 1956 when George Strawbridge and Walter R. Kierman were appointed co-chairmen of the School's development program. Less than a month ago, Mr. Poe announced the success of the bond raising drive.

ANNUAL FUND RAISER
Main Set for Monday. The YWCA has sent out several hundred invitations for its annual Membership Dinner. The meeting, which will include a musical, will be held at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the YWCA Green Street Center.

The Smorgasbord will be followed by a 15-minute open house meeting. Business of the evening will include a report on YWCA activities and the new YWCA-YWCA building on Asaion Place, along with election of board members for 1958 and election of the 1958 nominating committee.

Members will also elect two delegates to the National YWCA Convention in St. Louis, March 13 to 20. As an introduction to what is ahead, the YW will present a skit, "Miss Princeton in St. Louis."

Co-chairmen of the annual meeting are Mrs. Warren P. Byrd and Mrs. Richard M. Huber. Mrs. Sherman Bates, Mrs. William H. Scheide and Miss Esther Todd are the other members.

Jaycee Award to Yang. Dr. Chen Ning Yang, Nobel Prize-winning physicist at the Institute for Advanced Study, has been named one of the "Ten Outstanding Young Men of 1957" by the National Junior Chamber of Commerce. Dr. Yang will receive the award Saturday at a banquet in Phoenix, Ariz.

The Princeton Jaycees nominated Dr. Yang for the annual award by the national group. Dr. Yang and Dr. Tsung Lee of Columbia University received the Nobel Prize in October for their work on the "nonconservation of parity."

He won the award for his outstanding achievements in his field and for the contribution made to the general welfare of the American people. The purpose of the "Ten Outstanding Young Men" awards is to focus public attention on the achievements of America's young men.

times, and it was just as good the last time as it was the first. Pat Boone was the star of the film, and I guess his singing and his general appeal are what made me like the show so much. Also, the photography was beautiful. My favorite performance of the year was Frank Sinatra. In my job, I saw him many times in "The Joker Wild" and "The Rat Patrol and the Passion." He's always good, though.

Mare Efron, Washington, D. C., Freshman at Hun School, Plot-wise, "The Enemy Below" was the best picture of the year, but, for candor, "The Green Berets" was the top picture. The biggest acting surprise of the year was the performance of "The Girl on the Snowgirl." She was actually very good in her part. However, the year's award for an outstanding performance should go to Joanne Woodward for her wonderful work in "Three Faces of Eve."

number of research centers and light industries dotting the landscape, stressing that outfalls of this size are "right up our alley" rather than retail firms which are still a bit too small at the local level to require agency attention.

Turning prognosticator for a moment, Mr. Lenhart said he "can conceive of a Princeton agency employing 50 to 75 people in 10 years or so," pointing a finger at mounting city costs and likely advertising taxes with Marshchalk & Pratt Company as reasons for the coming "decent realization" trend. "I could be wrong," he acknowledged, "but I'm glad I have the opportunity to do a job here. As for that big agency of a decade hence, it'll be fun trying for it!"

BUSINESS In Princeton

YEAR OF PROGRESS

Savings & Loan Increases: An other year of "gratifying operations" for Princeton Savings and Loan Association has resulted in an increase of 17.4% over assets of 1956. B. Franklin Bunn, president of the association, reported to members at the annual meeting.

Mr. Bunn attributed the increase to the demand for financing new construction and the purchase of property.

During 1957, the association granted new mortgages in the amount of $1,377,690. Net savings increased $630,000 and members received 3% dividends amounting to $102,033.26. Mr. Bunn also reported that reserves were increased more than the required amount.

At the annual meeting, Mr. Bunn was re-elected president. Other elected officers who will serve during 1958 are: John B. Grover, vice-president; Charlotte W. Dougherty, executive secretary; John P. Hoff, Jr., treasurer; Helen S. Shepard, assistant secretary; Eleanor P. Doten, assistant treasurer; Louis Gerber, counsel.

The following directors were re-elected for a three-year term: B. Franklin Bunn, J. M. Stillwell, George W. Conover, Albert Salzman was elected to the board of directors to fill the unexpired term of the late George C. Winterger.

SLIGHT REDUCTION

Third, Maybe Last, for ASCOP. The Applied Science Corporation of Princeton, influenced for the third time in recent months by last summer's congressional cutbacks in certain areas of defense spending, has decided to reduce its number of staff and service employees through layoffs. An announcement to this effect was made to employees last Friday and actual layoffs began Monday of this week.

A release from the office of Peter Carter, public relations manager for ASCOP, stated that "major missile and aircraft manufacturers are beginning to feel the effects of increased national defense activity" and that "this increase promises better business for sub-contractors and suppliers." However, the release noted, "it will be several months before a substantial number of new orders reaches firms on ASCOP's sub-contract level."

The decade-old Princeton firm, which put the finishing touches on its new production plant near Hightstown and planned to raise employment to the 850-mark just as the unhappy congressional session broke, reduced the working force on two occasions during the fall. This week's "further economies" were made "so that engineering, production and sales programs can continue unimpeded." The company, hoping that the last reduction has been ordered, estimated that 14 percent of its employees will be affected by the latest layoffs, or, figuring in the previous layoffs, reduction to a current force of some 500 employees.

READY TO SERVE

New Ad Agency Here: One of the smallest (three member) and probably most enthusiastic agencies in the agency-conscious east is now established here in Princeton, operation out of pleasant second-story quarters at 14 Witherspoon Street. And no doubt the reason for the enthusiasm evidenced at Lenhart & Company is the head man himself, R. L. Lenhart, who admitted this week that he is "optimistic as hell" about the future.

President Lenhart "got away from the rough-and-tumble of New York City" two years ago after studying the situation carefully and deciding that "Princeton Junction is the most strategic point in the east." But he couldn't find what he wanted at the junction, so he bought a Colonial home in Hopewell and began conducting his agency business and Science Press, which prints handsome colored brochures and the like, out of his house. Now, having been squeezed out of office space by his flourishing press, he has bought his briefcase to Princeton to enjoy "more creative time."

Specializing in "advertising, sales promotion and public relations," according to its calling cards, Lenhart & Company is "fundamentally a copy agency, because 'its copy counts,'" according to the gentleman who calls the signals. "Anything but the best in artwork should not be used," he explained, "since everybody is now educated in art and can tell if it's grade-A."

A self-appointed promoter of the gospel of advertising, which he calls his "type" in life, Mr. Lenhart has a dual reason for believing that his class of small agency will "go and grow" in Princeton:

(1) Nearly every businessman believes it pays to advertise, but he doesn't understand the different types and therefore needs guidance;
(2) Most businesses have been "having a honeymoon for 10 to 15 years, but now, with sales getting tougher, they'll start looking to firms like ours to help them sell."

Faith in Princeton: Mr. Lenhart, who began his business career as a printer in old York, Pa., moved on to New York to discover his "cause"—a move which meant considerable advertising experience during the next 25 years. Principally, he served as an account executive with Marshchalk & Pratt Company (now part of McCann-Erickson) and subsequently with Erwin-Wasey Company.

A Pennsylvania Dutch individualist since childhood, Mr. Lenhart felt that a quarter-century was ample time to spend working for someone else's ad agency, so elected to form "a decentralized New York agency" of his own. He chose this area, noting its ideal location between the divergent advertising ideas of New York and Philadelphia ("it's good to be in a meeting-spot") and also noting that "the cost in production in the city has blown sky-high."

"I've got a great deal of faith in the Princeton area as it applies to this particular business," the agency head observed. He then went on to cite the increasing

IVY BATTLE CONTINUES

Columbia and Cornell here. Two games this weekend will occupy Princeton's basketball team before it ceases activity for Ivy-league examinations. Columbia's graduation-riddled quietest will be here Friday at 8 and Cornell, having its hopes on sophomore height, play in Dillon Gym Saturday at the same time.

The Lions, minus dejected Chef Forte whose 403 points and 287 average were new league records a year ago, have 6-5 Captain Rudy Milkey, as their only hold-over from last year's starting five. Dick Rodin is generally in double figures for three, while 6-6 sophomore Steve Trillichum has considerable potential.

Columbia, which has won only four of 11 this season, surprised by trimming Cornell 77-41 on the Ithaca's floor in the league opener for both. The Lions then dropped games on their own court last weekend to both Harvard and Dartmouth.

Cornell nearly pulled an upset by leading Dartmouth, 60-59, with 15 seconds left at Ithaca last week, but the Indians engineered a steal and then converted two foul shots for a 63-60 triumph. The Red's big gun is Lou Jordan, no more than 6-1 but sixth in league scoring last year and off to a good start this season. Sophomore strength comes from George Farley (6-7) and Dave Zornow (5-5).

The Ithaca's figure to be the toughest of the two teams facing Cap'n Cappon's forces this weekend, but there are already indications that this will be a close game in which very little figures accurately in the Ivy League. Take, for example, the outcome of the three games last weekend involving Princeton, Brown, Yale and Penn.

On Friday, the Tigers were upset (for the third year in a row at Providence), 63-57. Meanwhile, Yale was shocking Penn at New Haven, 88-72. Next night, Princeton came up with an unexpected 79-77 triumph over the Blue and Penn, a previous loser to the Tigers, knocked Brown from the unbenited, 92-76.

Tigers Cold, Then Hot. Princeton's course in the wide open 1958 Ivy chess will be erratic as long as the Tigers put games back as they played last weekend back to back. Against Brown, they had a merely 22% shooting average, twice trailed by 12 points and after holding a 57-56 lead with a little over three minutes to go, froze up completely. They couldn't produce a single point while yielding seven to the home team.

At New Haven, they were faced with the knowledge that unless they beat the defending champions on their own floor, the resultant 1-2 record would create a virtually insurmountable handicap with 11 more games to go. So they relied to a 16-point lead in the first half, withstood the Blue's retaliatory rally and hung on to win by two.

Captain Whitley Fulcomer, who collected 24 points in a losing cause at Brown, and junior Joe Burns were the big guns in the triumph over Yale. Fulcomer got away from the opening whistle at a point-a-minute pace, throwing in 13 in the last 12 minutes. That was enough to help the Tigers take a 35-19 advantage with 14 minutes gone.

Yale whittled the margin to 46-36 by half-time, but it was a fine performance on the part of the Orange and Black. Their floor average for the first 20 minutes had been a sizzling 60%.

Paced by All-Ivy Johnny Lee, Larry Downs and a 6-10 center, Gerry Glynn, the Elis fought back until they held a one-point lead (69-68) with 5:17 to go. Burns and Fulcomer connected to put the Tigers in front, and they stayed there for the rest of the way, although Lee had a final shot just before the buzzer that would have tied the count had it been accurate.

Carl Belz was held to 10 points at Providence and a dozen at New Haven, but in the latter game his defensive play was often highly valuable. In games to come, however, the Tigers are in for trouble if Belz is held to an

UP IN THE AIR OVER SUDDEN TURN OF EVENTS: Demonstrating the brand of ball he is capable of playing, George Wilson of Princeton High scored on this dandy jump-shot in the fourth quarter last Friday in the PHS gym, and it looked as if the Little Tigers were about to nip Hamilton's Hornets. But Wilson and two cohorts fouled out minutes later and the visitors won in overtime, 60-55. Wilson wound up with 15 points, joined in the double-figure department by teammates Alvin Ammerman (11), who hit for 19, and captain Steve Hegarty (left), who scored 12. For details, see page 21.

Burns was credited with 24 at New Haven for a particularly outstanding performance, and aided Fulenmet and Belz greatly with the rebounding off both boards. It was ability to control the ball this fashion that meant much to the Tigers as they became the first Ivy team to trim Yale on its own floor since Dartmouth turned the trick in December, 1956.

Yale will be here for a return game on February 8. It appears at this early date that the remaining games between Princeton, Yale and Dartmouth will have the greatest bearing on the outcome of the race. The Indians have already defeated the Elis at Hanover, 82-70.

IVY LOSS IN HOCKEY

Harvard Wins Opener, 7-2. With less than three minutes gone in the third period, Princeton's hockey team trailed Harvard by no more than 3-2 Saturday night in Baker rink. That, however, was the end of the Tigers' scoring, while the Crimson poured four more goals into the Princeton cage.

In effect, Harvard won as it pleased, turning on the power midway through the final period in a manner that served to disorganize the Tiger defense in visible fashion. Sophomore goalie Bo Torrey turned in a highly commendable performance for the losers, kicking out 35 shots in addition to the seven that got by him. On a number of the latter, he could have used more assistance than he got.

The Crimson was away to a 1-0 lead early in the game when Captain Bob Cleary engineered a quick break while the home forces were pressing because Harvard had a man in the penalty box. The margin was raised to 3-0 by the end of the second round, but the Tigers' sophomore line of Tony Pell, Pete Cook and Dave Wagstaff cut into this with a pair of goals from close range shortly after the final frame started.

That was it, and Dartmouth's 5-2 triumph over Yale while Army was beating Brown in a non-league encounter indicates that a two-team race is the best the Harvard-dominated circuit can expect. It is highly doubtful, however, if the Indians have the ability to do more than give the talent-laden Cantas a couple of interesting games.

Princeton heads for Hanover Friday and then shuts down for the two-week exam period. (For results of Tuesday's game against American International, see page 21.)

JIM FARRIN

Princeton 'Squash Player

John Conroy, Princeton squash and tennis coach, still had seen 24 hours after the match with highly-regarded Navy. His players had not only blanked the middies, 9-0, to record the first shutout in the Princeton-Navy series in a couple of decades, but his number one player, Jim Farrin, had achieved an almost impossible comeback.

Farrin, a senior with a distinguished record behind him in both the indoor sport and tennis, had as his opponent John Griffiths, Conroy says the midshipman is "the best college squash player in the country."

The Princetonian took the first game, 15-11, but in the second and third, Griffiths' powerful serve began to tell, and Farrin lost both, 12-3 and 9-12. The trend continued unabated in the fourth, Farrin trailed 7-14 and his opponent stood within one point of victory.

Then the rally was on, and the Tiger player's skill carried him through seven consecutive match points. With the score tied at 14-14, Griffiths had the choice of having one point or two decide the outcome. He chose the former, and Farrin then ran out the fifth game, 15-11.

The slim (165-lb.) Exeter alumnus first made headlines when he won the Eastern Intercollegiate tennis title at the end of his sophomore year. Last June, by retained his singles championship and was a member of the victorious doubles team, capturing a fine season as the number one player on the Princeton outfit which had run away with the Ivy title.

"If I thought we had the depth to beat Navy," Conroy said, "but I never figured we'd take every match." He now has his sights set on the Ivy title in squash, which Princeton shared last year with Harvard and Yale. Having a team spearheaded by a player with Jim Farrin's all-around ability stamps the Tigers as the entry to beat in a little-publicized but highly-competitive sport in which the level of undergraduate ability is considerably above that of football, basketball and hockey.

and a half after the "Sudden death" period began. Both teams handled the ball before Phares' telltale shot. This field goal gave him 16 points for his afternoon's work, high for the Johnny Huns, who also were aided by Tom Horvath, netting 15 in his first appearance as a regular, and Captain Chuck Barren's 12.

In the first quarter, the game seemed anything but a "hair-raiser" as Hun fast-broke to a quick 17-5 lead. Pennington fought back in a hurry, however, and succeeded in deadlocking the contest, 21-11, by halftime. In the third period, Pennington ran up a 39-25 margin and appeared set to claim a triumph, when the Red and Black erupted once more and managed a 50-50 tie at the end of regulation time. The first, three-minute overtime merely resulted in more of the same, a 56-56 stand-off. Hun, seeking his fourth straight victory, engaged George School in the Seminary gym this Wednesday, too late for inclusion of the final result in this issue of Town Topics. On Saturday, Coach Selleck's club will play Bryn Athyn in Pennsylvania. —Continued on Page 21 end of an era in Princeton swimming was recorded last Saturday in New York when Princeton's freestyle relay team was disqualified in the final event for improper turns, thereby giving Columbia a 4-2 victory. It was the first triumph for the Lions against Tiger swimmers since 1911.

Army will provide the opposition this weekend in the water, while the once-battered wrestling team is favored over Columbia in a contest at West Point. The fence, 19-8 losers to Navy in their opener, face C.N.Y. away, while the squash team (see "We Congratulate") begins its quest for the Ivy title against Cornell at Ithaca. The winter track team travels in Annapolis to meet Navy in its first event on the 1958 schedule.

HOWLING NOISES

After telling games in the low 200s on many occasions during the fall, Lucky Cupples of loop-leading Princeton Engine Company No. 1 finally hit his stride this past week and fired a sizzling 257, high for any competitor at Princeton Recreation Center as well as in the Tri-County Firemen's League this season. . . . combined with his ensuing games of 116 and 208, the red-hot score gave Cupples a profitable 621 score for the week and enabled No. 1 to retain its margin, 73-65, over runner-up Belle Mead. . . . other top Tri-County totals were registered by Jack Janick, 216-189-176 (for a 581 series), "Burr Van Marter, 199-193-211 (for a 596 series), Mike Koplin, 212-192-179 (for a 583 series), Les Luck, 207, George Hibbs, 2. . . Dick Anderson, 203, and John Donaldson, 200. . . meanwhile, Stou's Spirits, new team on the Major League level, pulled through the season's first half, vaulted into a four-way first place deadlock with Kase Kleener, Decker's Dairy and Tiger Garage (each with 10 wins) as the second half began to get interesting. . . . high scorers in the Major were Cy Cornell, 223, Pete Frank, 211, Perry Klatt, 203, Van Marter, 200, Joe Ostrowski, 201, and Joe Trani, 200.

Tiger Garage, with 64 wins to 56 for second place Grover Lumber, sewed up the first half of the Princeton "A" League's season, while Titus Motors won all its games to take an early lead (6 wins) among "B" loop clubs, just starting the campaign's second half, and Glenmore led a 67-62 advantage over Nassau Del in the Industrial circuit. . . . John Stark, 216, and Joe Perpetua, 200, were the only "A" bowlers to hit 200 or better and, in the "B" loop, Russ Sulphur, 213, Maurice Gledhill, 210, and Tim Harris, also 210, were the only 200-plusers. . . . Roddy Lehner, 222, Walt Wenging, 218, Larry Golden, 214, and Grover Jones, 209, made it in Industrial competition. . . . In the Women's Industrial League, Nassau Service (24) and Turney Motors (22) maintained an easy second half lead over the rest of the pack. . . . Joan Adinowski tossed a fine 204 game, challenged for scoring laurels by Betty Kleiber, 193-177, Marilyn Silverster, 186, Sarah Hunsyatt, 184, Barbara Danser, 181, and Joyce Anderson, 177.

The Trentonian Doubles Handicap Tournament near its conclusion, scheduled for this coming Sunday afternoon following three more blocks of games over the weekend at Curtis Bowling Academy. . . . Princetonians Joe Trani and Phil West will go into the final rounds five points behind the pace-setting combination of Joe Vitine and Nick Hvasa. . . . Princeton representatives won two of their three matches last weekend, but dropped an important one to the Viglione-Hvasa pair by a 5-1 margin. . . . thus, Trani and West will have to shoot again this Saturday and Sunday to catch the leaders—and to stay in front of Harry Johnson and Ed Crosby, close behind in third place and now driving hard.

Wish Comes True

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

We are living in Nassau Estates, and would welcome receiving TOWN TOPICS.

DR. AND MRS. HENRY P. DAYVID
1 Jill Lane

Editor's Note:

The Editor: The Davids and 117 other Nassau Estates families now receive TOWN TOPICS every Thursday—see page 3.

Stardust or Cinder?

The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

It is now possible to report, on the basis of unimpeachable sources, that certain local officials have under study an astounding program for the installation of a revolutionary new system for deicing streets, using the energy of hydrogen fusion. (The Power of the Stars.) Far-sighted planning on this project by these officials may well make it possible for Princeton to be the world's first community to be so equipped.

It is a pleasure to be able to reveal this information in the belief that it will enable informed Princetonians to appreciate the justifiable reluctance of these officials to consider the use of such old-fashioned techniques as the application of salt and cinder mix in road traction control.

—Two errors in TOWN TOPICS.

—One error in the Princeton Herald.

was quoted as saying he represented 173 residents of the Riverside area, when, in fact, the total should have been "less than 70," Mr. Labatut said. Also Mr. Labatut noted, Mr. Petzold was quoted as labeling the board chairman "an unwilling suitor" of Princeton University, when, in fact, Mr. Petzold stated: "It seems to me Princeton University is an unwilling suitor before your board tonight."

Tulane Street Parking

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

We are releasing for publication the text of a letter forwarded to the Mayor and Council:

"Both as citizens and as businessmen, we are greatly concerned over the present lack of adequate parking space in the downtown business district.

We sincerely appreciate the fact that our city government has acquired the Public Service lot at Spring, Witherspoon and Wiggins, as recommended by the Mayor's Citizen Committee in the Parking last year. But another suggestion of the Committee has not yet been carried out: to create an interior block parking lot on both sides of Tulane between Spring and Nassau.

We earnestly hope that you will take action on the proposed Tulane interior block parking lot in the near future. If the Business Association can be of any assistance, please call upon us.

FRIGHTFUL WEEK

Little Tigers Drop Three. Misfortune in the form of physical ailments and inexperience plagued Princeton High's basketball team during the formative stages of the current campaign, but it couldn't hold a candle to the bad luck that marred matters this past week. In good physical condition and anxious to improve a so-so 2-2 record, the Little Tigers played aggressive ball only to wind up losing three straight games for the first time in a long, long while.

Against Peddie School a week ago Wednesday, it was a marked case of being over-anxious—inasmuch as the Blue and White club was battling two former PHS stars—once Princeton lost to a prep five it could have beaten, 10-31. Two days later, in a spirited overtime duel with Hamilton that might have gone either way, the Little Tigers saw fouls cause removal of three PHS players in the deciding moments of the contest, and these same fouls also caused defeat, 61-60. On Tuesday, an untouched Bound Brook combination (7-0 at the time) displayed too much of everything, overpowering PHS, 70-49.

A pair of Princetonians stood out in the Peddie encounter, but, unfortunately for Coach Tony Borzok's hand-licks guys, the pair—Eric Little, Bob Berger and Dick Knowles—were the Old Blue and Gold of the prep school. Little, Berger was held to a low his campaign average of 23 points per outing, principally by Alan Ammerman, he and Knowles nonetheless were responsible for an alert second-half spurt that put the game out of Princeton's reach. Peddie's Fiedle, a well-deserved win, Berger and Knowles scored 14 apiece, most of them in the last minutes, thereabouts, portending nicely Peddie's top point-makers, Captain Lee Vulgaris with 21 and Marty Goldman with 18.

For Borzok's quintet, which was obviously tied up and unable to react in the kill, Ammerman regained a bit of his old form, tallying 20, and George Wilson and Dick Snyder hit double figures with 12 and 10, respectively. But it was a sad day for the determined Little Tigers as Captain Steve Hagarty had trouble with rebounds all afternoon and Joe Chibbaro, Borzok's hoped-for "take charge" playmaker, indicated he may lack the necessary experience for the job.

Hornets Sting Last. After trailing by eight points in the third quarter of their game with Hamilton, the Little Tigers exhibited their best ball of the season and tallied 13 consecutive points to wrest the lead. Then, it became a see-saw affair and still looked like anybody's game until Wilson ran out of fouls and his teammates ran out of gas. Last-second overtime foul shot spelled the difference, Ammerman sank 19 minutes, followed by Wilson's and Hagarty's 10, in a performance which showed Princeton was still a little stiff—and will get back on the triumph trail ere long.

Tuesday wasn't the day, however, as the Little Tigers' tail and talented Bound Brook team that led almost from the very beginning and never felt much of a threat from the Blue and White. Ammerman contributed 22 points to the losing effort, high for him and high for Princeton this season, but no other PHS player managed double figures and, to make matters worse, Bound Brook shot phenomenally from outside while PHS was missing its long ones consistently.

While the Princeton varsity was busy losing this past week, the PHS Jayvees, also 2-2 when they met Peddie's juniors, fared much better. They toppled Peddie, 47-40, then edged Hamilton, 54-51, and only dropped their third game of the winter when the Blue and White's JV—a 59-49 setback. Edgar Riddick paced the PHS scorers with 12 against Peddie, 16 against Hamilton and 17 against Bound Brook. Julius (Butch) Cross netted 14 in the Peddie game and 12 in the Hornet tilt, while Jack Lackey had 11 against Hamilton and Bob Cooper picked up 13 against Bound Brook. This Friday, at 7 o'clock, both PHS clubs will try night basketball for the second time this season—in Evening against the Blue Devils. Borzok has hopes his varsity will snap its unfortunate skid and return home with a 3-5 mark for next Tuesday's engagement here with Long Branch at 3:20 p.m.

VICTORY IN HOCKEY

Tigers Win Tuesday, 4-3. The mood of the players matched the sloppy weather outside Tuesday night as Princeton and American International College battled through a desultory hockey game in Baker Rink. The uninspired scorers finally rallied to overcome the occasionally ill-tempered and clearly out-manned visitors, 4-3. Despite a 300-mile automobile ride through wind and torrential rain that delayed game-time by a half-hour, the Springfield, Mass., contingent twice held two-goal leads, A.I.C. took a 2-0 bulge in the opening period, and early in the second, had a 3-1 margin. Princeton eventually staged a three-goal spurge that meant victory. Neil Uman, John McBride and Sandy Wilkins scored, scoring within five minutes midway through the second period. Most of the evening, however, the Tigers' passing was consistently inaccurate and their defensive play—so costly in the Harvard defeat—again assisted the opposition in visible fashion on the scoreboard.

Despite the fact that they could suit only two lines and two defensive pairs, the visitors continually baited the officials. Roger Akeley made three infractions, penalty box in the first period alone, but brother Bob outdid him in the final frame when he drew a ten-minute misconduct sentence for speaking unreasonably of referee Merritt Budd's anectors.

WITHERSPOON WINS

Coach Well-Pleaseed, Witherspoon School's varsity basketball team will seek its third consecutive victory of the young season in a home encounter with the next Wednesday. Coach Sim Moss five launched its nine-game schedule in fine style this past week, surprising Valley Road School in a 29-28 thriller last Thursday and trouncing West Windsor by a lopsided 39-19 score Monday afternoon.

Noting that he was well-pleased with his PHS' performance in both triumphs, Moss singled out Dick Bedford, Bob Snyder and Alan Anderson for their contributions against the visiting West Windsor team and Gary Grover, Harry Morton and Snyder for their work against Valley Road, which lost on its own court. Also included on the varsity roster are Charlie Brumbaugh, Keith Back, Griffin Dix, Chester Wooten, Norm Furness, Bennett Johnson and Donny Zuber.

PCD Teams Split. Victor in the opening game of its season, 8 to 6, Princeton Country Day School's hockey team heads for New England this weekend on its annual trip to Connecticut. The Blue and White will meet junior sextets from the Kent and Loomis Schools before returning home. The Lawrenceville juniors were the victims of the high-scoring outburst in Baker Rink Tuesday, as PCD jumped on its rivals and had a 6-2 margin going into the final round. Bob Mueller and Dave Kelley each accounted for three goals, with Perry Rodgers and Job Stevens getting the others.

Country Day's inexperienced basketball team was swamped by Valley Road in its first contest, losing 70 to 21. Don Ammerman 20 points were high for the victors.

CANDIDATES FOR SCHOLARSHIPS ABROAD: These six boys and girls have been selected from among 23 applicants for final consideration at American Field Service Exchange students. If they are chosen in competition with others from throughout the nation, they will spend three months this year living with families abroad as "unofficial ambassadors of the U.S." In front are Deborah Smith and Abigail Pollak of Miss Fine's School and Susan Craig of Princeton High; behind them are Peter Vask, Helen Harrison and Blake Smith all of H.S. (Town Topics Photo by Alan Richards) and two brothers survive. The service was held from the Matter Funeral Home was conducted by the Rev. Charles Bradman, pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church, Rocky Hill. Burial was in Clinton, N. J.

Mrs. Marie P. Quaresima, 75, formerly of Princeton, died January 8 in Kimball Hospital, Lakewood. She had lived at Toms River for the past 29 years. Survivors include her husband, Joseph Quaresima; a daughter, five sons, including Theodore Riecky of Princeton and Joseph L. Riecky of Princeton Junction; 16 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren; four sisters and a brother.

The service was held from the Kimble Funeral Home with requiem high mass celebrated at St. Paul's Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Mrs. Margery N. Robinson of 65 Allendale, died January 10 at her home after a long period of declining health. She was the widow of the Rev. Alban H. Robinson, who founded the Unitarian Church in Princeton.

Born in Lynn, Mass., Mrs. Robinson had lived in Plainfield, N. J., Cincinnati and Newton Center, Mass., where Mr. Robinson was minister of the Unitarian Church of the Unitarian denomination. She was active in the affairs of all the churches in which her late husband served as minister, and also in the Unitarian denomination as a whole. Mr. Robinson's longest pastorate, 1919-1945, was at the First Unitarian Society in Plainfield, where a stained-glass window in the church commemorates the couple's service to the church and the community.

Mrs. Robinson traveled widely in the United States, Central America, Europe, the Near East and the Orient. She and her husband had several trips to Pennsylvania, a part of Hungary where the Unitarian Church was founded in the 17th century.

She had many interests besides her church work. She was a long-time guarantor and friend of the Bach Music Festival in Bethlehem, Pa., the New School for Social Research, the League of Women Voters, the Nations Committee for Mental Hygiene and the American Forestry Association. She was particularly devoted to young couples, wherever she lived, and was the benefactor of many of them. She had lived in Princeton since 1915.

She is survived by a daughter and three grandchildren. The funeral service was given at a Sunday service will be held this Sunday, January 19, at the YMCA on Witherspoon Street.

John K. Shear, 40, of 27 Hackett Avenue, died January 10 in the Princeton Hospital after a short illness.

His father, who was also editor of the nationally-circulated magazine, Architectural Record, had taught in his field at Princeton University and Columbia College Institute of Technology. He was head of the Department of Architecture at the latter from 1919 until 1934.

Born in Putnam, N. Y., Mr. Shear received his bachelor and master's degrees from Carnegie Tech in 1928 and 1931, respectively. In 1931, he also earned a degree as Master of Fine Arts in Architecture from Princeton, where he held a fellowship.

Practiced as an architect in Bristol, Va. and Pittsburgh was interrupted by four years of wartime service in the Navy. The year after the war, he was an associate professor in the School of Architecture at Princeton.

Returning to his alma mater, he served there until resigning Architectural Record in November, 1954. During that time, he had formed his own architectural firm in Princeton, N. J., and had written a number of articles in his field, he was a member of the American Institute of Architects and the Architectural League of New York.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Madrox Shear, two sons, John K., Jr. and Thomas S., a daughter, Ann M.; his parents, a brother and a sister. The service was held at the First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Dr. John E. Bodin officiating. Burial was in Putnam, N. J., under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Mrs. Minora M. Woolf, 83, of Laurel Avenue, Kingston, died January 11 in Princeton Hospital after a long illness.

Born in Kingston, she was a member of the First Presbyterian Church there. She was the widow of William F. Woolf and leaves a son, Raymond, of Kingston.

The service was held at The Matter Funeral Home, with the Rev. Henry W. Hoops, pastor of the Kingston Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial was in Kingston Cemetery.

INCUMBENTS TO RUN
School Elections Set. Five present members of the Princeton community's two school boards announced this week that they will be candidates for re-election when six available posts go on the block at annual elections February 11. Dr. J. Donald Butler, 56 Southern Way, a member of the Township Board of Education who has been instrumental in developing plans for new school sites and structures in his municipality, said he will not run for the sixth open position.

In the Borough, Mrs. Wilbur M. Young, 25 Mercer Street, president of the Borough Board of Education, and Irving W. Mersohn, 129 Nassau Street, veteran school secretary, will seek new three-year terms this year. Along with Graham Kohrer, 35 Princeton Avenue, the board's public relations representative who was first elected last year to complete the term of Roger O'Kane, 15 the Township, Mrs. Walton Van Winkle, 68 Overbrook Drive, and Mrs. Robert W. Smiley, 307 Mercer Street, both incumbents, again will be candidates for three-year terms.

The two Township nominees reported that their running-mate next month will be A. Robert Trudel, 545 State Road, a member of the physics department at Princeton University. While never a school board participant here, Mr. Trudel once served as a member of the board for the American school in Brussels, Belgium.

To date, the six above-mentioned Princetonians are the only persons who have filed candidacies of their intention to try for school board seats. Petitions for any other qualified candidates may be obtained at the Borough board office at Princeton High School or the Township board offices at Valley Road School. This must be completed and returned by 9 p.m. next Wednesday, January 22, either at the respective board offices or at the offices of the board secretaries, Mr. Mersohn in the Borough and Norman J. Anderson in the Township.

Birth List. Fourteen children, ten of whom were boys, were born at Princeton Hospital last week to parents of the Princeton area.

Parents of daughters are: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lewis, 13 Magnolia Lane; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thomas, Franklin Park; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund McGee, Timberland Drive, Pennington; Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Prociociano, 151 Bayard Lane.

Families of sons are: Mr. and Mrs. James Arrington, 12 Hart Avenue, Hopewell; Mr. and Mrs. J. Sells, 72 Broadridge Drive; Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Sichel, 50 Hillside Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund McGee, 111 Van Lane, Lawrenceville; and Mr. and Mrs. George H. Sands, 210 Princeton-Kingston Road.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sorochin, 150 Spruce Street; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. McHugh, 39 Kendall Road, Franklin Park; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Goldstein, 19 Marion Road; Mr. and Mrs. Solman Epps, 69 Clay Street; and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin L. Rohrer, Featherbed Lane Hopewell.

Past Commanders Night Set. Past 18 of the American Legion will hold a "Past Commanders Night" Wednesday to honor all former commanders of the post. The program will get under way at 8 p.m. at post headquarters, 56 Mercer Street.

Twenty-five new members will be initiated and will receive gold Legion member pins. All member and eligible veterans of the post are invited to attend the program which will conclude with refreshments and entertainment.

POLIO DRIVE PROGRESSES
Mothers to March. The Mothers' March Against Polio will be held on Wednesday, January 29, between 7 and 8 p.m. The march is being organized by Mrs. Russell Skillman, chairman, with plans for a meeting at the home of Mrs. Duncan C. Augustine at 62 Snowden Lane.

Assisting Mrs. Skillman are Mrs. Augustine, Mrs. Fred L. Creager, Mrs. Judson D. Kurtz, Mrs. Philip J. Wainford, Mrs. William W. Marvel, Mrs. Braxton Elberle, Mrs. Bevan Smith, Mrs. Wilbert E. Moore, Mrs. Edward W. Bernick, Mrs. Bernard C. Cogen and Mrs. Hugh C. Hoffman. About 250 mothers are expected to participate with families going to the March of Dimes campaign.

Also benefiting the March of Dimes will be the tenth annual spaghetti dinner and dance held by the Princeton Council 1186 Knights of Columbus. The dance will take place at the Knights' home, 111 Prospect Avenue, on Saturday, January 25. Dinner will be served from 5 to 9 p.m., followed by dancing from 8 to 12. The dinner will cost $2 for adults and $1 for children. Tickets may be obtained, in advance, from the Knights' home, from any member, or at the door on the evening of the dinner.

The mayors of the Borough and Township, Raymond F. Male and Charles A. Hurford, have issued a declaration proclaiming January "March of Dimes Month" and are urging full support of the campaign for funds. The Mercer County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has expressed its desire to care for polio patients stricken before and during 1967, for vaccination, and for a tank for Princeton Hospital.

Hearts and Flowers Dance. The Junior Faculty Wives of Princeton University will give their annual dance, this year entitled "Courts of Pleasure on the Night of St. Valentine's Day. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 in Froetor College, Graduate College, with tickets available at the door.

Mrs. T. B. Bez is chairman of the dance, coordinating the members are Mrs. Ralston B. Russell, who is in charge of decorations; Mrs. Peter J. Watter, for entertainment; Mrs. Jerome C. Strong, refreshments; Mrs. Hugh J. Greenwood, tickets; and Dr. Oliver E. Overesch, Jr., publicity.

Legislative Workshop Planned. The monthly meeting of the Princeton Branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom will be in the form of a legislative workshop. The meeting will be held at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Loren B. Johnston, 101 Overbrook Drive.

Plans include briefing on nuclear testing, defense appropriations, reciprocal trade agreements and other proposals for peace. Those interested in more information or transportation may call Walnut 1-6038.

To Discuss Teenage Finances. A panel discussion on "Teenage Finances" will be featured at the meeting of the Princeton High School Parents-Teachers Association Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the school. The meeting is the second in a series of interest to both students and parents.

Adult members of the panel will be Mrs. Verna Green, teacher of home economics, and William A. Stuart, assistant director of sponsored scholarship services. The teenage viewpoint will be presented by Miss Nancy W. Pringle, assistant director of Princeton, Miss Linda Fendyke of Plainsboro and William Samsbury of Dayton. Harry W. Hazard will moderate the discussion which will be open to the audience.

Wyman Club to Meet. Dr. Benjamin K. Silverman will be the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Wyman Club. It will be held in the Graduate College Lounge at 8:15 p.m. Monday. The Princeton pediatrician's topic will be "The Pre-School Child," which will be followed by an open discussion. Refreshments will be served.

Big City Stuff

When Borough Patrolman Russell Shangle saw the one o'clock bus to Trenton whisk by Cox's Store Sunday afternoon, he recognized one of the passengers on board—George Scott, 32, of 133 Spruce Street. He also remembered that "Scott," well-known but not oft-seen in Princeton, was the subject of a September 18, 1957, "wild" report from the Neptune City (N.J.) police department.

Moving quickly, the patrolman—on a foot "beat"—called headquarters, which, in turn, relayed the message to Patrolman Ralph Prosser, one of the Borough's patrol cars. Scott, a writer of bad checks who has been in and out of prison for local violations, was apprehended moments later by Patrolman Prosser at the Nassau Street-Bayard Lane bus stop. Neptune City authorities then took over after being advised of the arrest by the Princeton officers.

ward J. Sweeney of 15 Murray Place will head the Princeton Democratic Club this year. Mr. Sweeney who replaces John F. McCarthy, was unanimously elected president at the winter meeting at the Chestnut Street Firehouse.

President of Local 3355 of the United Steel Workers, CIO, at the De LaVal Company of Trenton. Also, Mr. Sweeney serves as first vice-president of the Central New Jersey Council of the CIO and as vice-president of the State CIO.

Democrats picked Gordon Waldron of 22 Wilson Road for the post vice-president. Officers elected for the 1958 term were James W. Foley, treasurer; Mrs. Jane A. McGrath, recording secretary; Miss Hebe Gibbons, corresponding secretary; William W. Marvel and William G. Whately, directors of the Township; and Mrs. Lillian G. Smith and Walter Coan, directors for the Borough.

Lawrenceville PTA to Meet. Members of the Lawrenceville Elementary School PTA will host a panel discussion on the proposed school budget at their meeting at 8:15 p.m. this Thursday. Members of the School Education Committee will make up the panel of four.

They are Mrs. Hugh Sanson, Daniel Longhi, Bruno Schmidt and Carl Lindgren, with Robert Adams acting as moderator. Kirk Schaub, president of the Board of Education, and Harry Pratt, Superintendent of the Lawrenceville Township Schools, will be present to furnish additional information. Mr. Lindgren is chairman of the School Education Committee which is presenting the panel. Coffee and dessert will be served by the second grade teachers under direction of Mrs. Bruce McClellan and Mrs. H. P. Keller.

Women Organize Club. A new club for young business women, the Venture Club, has been organized by the Soroptimist International of Princeton. The club is a service organization and membership is by invitation.

for $55,000

We're sorry for the owners who had to leave Princeton before moving into their dream house. But it does give someone else a break. The two-story white frame house has the roomy appeal of well-proved conventional building, plus many modern touches which skillful architects and experienced parents can add to make for easy living. A back hall planned for muddy shoes, large laundry room adjoining the kitchen, basement with fireplace, lovely kitchen with eating area, and magnificent closets are some of the practicalities. Living room and paneled study with fireplace, large dining room, four bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths give lots of living space indoors. Outdoors three wooded acres provide plenty of playing space; and you can have 10 acres for $65,000 if you really want to move around!
